

The Legends Headline Speaker

Ruling Your Throne & Owning Your Queendom

WITH NICOLE B. GEBHARDT

In Nicole's childhood, her world was darkened by molestation and rape; her young adult life clouded by years of depression, an abusive marriage, and the death of her infant son. She suffered from low self-esteem and floundered in her identity and purpose.

Through a fateful and almost fatal fall down the stairs, Nicole began a journey of self-exploration that led her to overcome grief, addiction, and unworthiness. Not wanting to accept negative titles, she shook off the victim persona, met struggles head-on, and ultimately rose to claim her virtual crown as a "Bad-Ass Queen."

"In every woman, there is a queen. Speak to the queen and the queen will answer."

Nicole reflects and says that being five years sober and turning pain into purpose from finding her son lifeless in his crib at 9 weeks of age and having multiple miscarriages to now helping women all over the world who have experienced pregnancy and infant loss like herself with her #1 best-selling book, Broken Wings Broken Dreams and coaching are moments that fill her with joy. Now, Nicole is teaching women how to fall madly in love with their true authentic selves so that they can begin to love themselves and live their best life.

1 in 4 pregnancies results in miscarriage. Over 2 million more annually worldwide are stillbirths. SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome) claims thirty-eight deaths per 100,000 live births in the United States.

"It was October 15th. Circled in red on my calendar, I knew it was the annual Pregnancy and Infant Loss Remembrance Day and October was its Awareness Month. My husband and children were away at work and school and I started downing any alcohol and prescription pills I could find in the house. After an entire day of binging and sobbing, I stumbled out to the staircase to throw myself down several flights to end it all."

"At the bottom of those stairs, I died but only to wake up in a hospital with my dear husband hovering over me and doctors administering emergency, lifesaving care. That day, however, I found Samuel, my angel infant son, picking me up and giving me his wings to help me live again."

Nicole shares her raw, emotional, and deeply inspirational story within her multiple books about her painful past.

She spent 14 years battling and blaming herself for her nine week old baby, Samuel's death. That determinative day at the bottom of a staircase began her journey back to a renewal, rebirth, and transformation. The directed return in learning to live again turned her pain into purpose and her loss into a legacy of love, all partnered with her angel son, Samuel.

Nicole, tell us more about your free gift in the Legends Summit Vault.

My free gift is a checklist to help with anxiety. This is a great asset for any woman who is ready to turn her pain into purpose. I hope that this checklist will change even more lives, especially with women who have experienced pregnancy or infant loss. I hope my story will help others find hope and healing even in a time of great heartache.

To grab the checklist, click here or visit nicolebgebhardt.com/contact and put "Checklist" in the subject.